Hi Rob!
We are just starting our closure and consolidation journey. I see you are ahead of us (see below). Do you mind sharing some of your next steps/plans for engagement with the city at the council meeting? I get the gist below, but I wanted to see if you have any additional information on the altitude at which you plan to present. It is typical that, as neighboring districts with schools in the City and County of Broomfield, we may need to align or at least compare and contrast our approaches.

I am off this week, so I added my Joe Ferdani, our Chief Communications Officer, to this in case anything is time-sensitive. I am back next if you'd prefer to talk via phone.

Have a great week!

Hi Jen -- thanks for this info.

Let us connect with the BVSD folks to learn more re their planned content for the May council meeting. Depending on their altitude and approach we may want to join in that presentation. We have our Legacy HS graduation at CU that night, and so we'd want to think about whether that evening works or if we might be able to present at a later meeting.

We'll circle back soon. Thanks for this info!

While conversations about potential school closures are never easy, the discussion around declining enrollment is not coming as a surprise, given the trends we've all been tracking. I'm including our internal team as this news is traveling quickly in the community.

Based on that discussion, it sounds like two elementary schools and possibly one middle school are currently being considered for closure. I understand the District is planning a series of community listening sessions, with the Broomfield session scheduled at Broomfield High School on April 20. I wasn't informed that there would be an article in the news this weekend.

As I understand it, the intent is for their staff to take the proposed plan and community feedback from the listening sessions to the Board in June, with final adoption anticipated in October 2026.

Are you planning to release any formal notice or communications materials that I could reference in that update, particularly related to the timeline? Additionally, would you or a member of your team be interested in attending the Council meeting to provide context directly?
