BM_BEGINRob and Glen,I have a question that might inform future residential development in Superior. A couple of developers are currently working on housing-specific proposals for vacant properties in town. As a resident of Superior, I would like those concepts to be as family-friendly as possible. If I understood correctly, you talked about the majority of students residing in single-family homes. It sounds like new multi-family developments don't have a significant impact on school enrollment. I don't doubt this, but I am wondering if this is an anecdotal observation or if you have evidence to back up the claim. Please let me know if you have information that might be useful to the planning process.Thanks so much!Anne Shanahan
